This was supposed to be a hash full of surprises, but to everyone's amazement it was all talk....

So after getting to the site and expecting to see what was described as a carpeted shoreline, turned out to a 10x10 carpet to help you slide faster into the water and not knowing what you going to hit... and dey say to keep yuh shoes on too.

At least they were right about the plenty parking, but not a tree in sight and people lookin for de usual sponsored water, which if they know they wasn't giving any, to tell the people to walk with they own.

Anyway the run finally start and people wondering if we might be swimming for part of de hash, but it was not to be, instead a very dry with plenty sharp bush. Them hares set ah alright trail but like one or two of them also left an "ohdear" that would stay for most of the trail making you wonder if it wasn't only a paper trail...

This being one of the shorter hashes but is like these hares named themselves the "x-men" "x" fuh so and long time almost de whole pack ent get ketch with ah "x" up the hill....

De bess part of de run was when we reach de beer stop "a hasher's wet dream" with some heavy soca music and then to a short on in for de lime to start....and then time for de "down downs" with plenty virgins, a few new shoes, but most of all some interesting candidates for poofter, and they call de names and the peoples' favorite was a fella who like himself so much that he was taking selfies while on de hash, well he really ask for it, and yuh know after he get poofter he gone again with de selfies, dat boy really like himself bad.

HM's Halfpence

Well the hares really went out to put on the Carnival atmosphere. Kudos to them, though they didn't get the 'one, big, bad, st*nk truck on de road' they wanted. Had to settle for a Corolla!... for the chip in after the beer stop at the On-In. A most original idea! Best part of the run! That Corolla had 40-foot-truck-like-music and served as the hash speaker box for the rest of the proceedings. Thanks to Richie and his buddy.

A huge good turnout for the run – most hashers anxious for some fresh territory in well-hashed Chaguaramas. There were quite a few virgin hashers also. The hares gave their best effort, we hope, with the terrain. Their virgin territory theory was debunked by the senior hashers before the run set off. Most of us are still carrying the evidence of the dry, scratching & claw-like vegetation.

The spacious run site and shoreline provided a lovely atmosphere after the run. The lime was nice and the beer flowed. Food & beer sold out and there was ice-cream treats to follow. A very good hash put on by the hares. Thanks to them!

Enviro-corner

It was good to see hashers responding to the committee's call to be more aware of their trash disposal. Still lots of room for improvement, but a good effort on behalf of everyone. Let's make this effort a sustainable one! ...Remember Disassemble, Crush & Dispose
