Run: 875	Date: 27 Sep 2014	Site: Wildflower Park	Hares: Martin, Devon, Liz, Bjorn	Scribe: A.F

Another sunny bright hash Saturday, as we all gathered at the Wild Flower Park with a good turn out and lovely weather Devon one of the Happiest Men Alive, call order which we all know is an impossible task...and announcing the usual instructions about the trail for the new comers.

The Run

The packed was led off by Devon as we proceeded to St Clair residential area, a few hashers stating "this is a Monday run and they taking us to chancellor". The trail were easily marked on the road until we went off to the trail which took us to the Chancellor forested area, that's when hashers realized this wasn't NO typical Monday run but more like Kings of the hills, and Martin one of the Happiest Men Alive with a smile on his face saying "Who say Monday Run," as the trails took us up hills which was challenging, I witnessed hashers sitting few times to catch their breath. Upon arriving at the top of one of the hills after a few water breaks myself, we witnessed an astonishing view of the city which was most breathtaking and worth the journey. Then down to Royal Botanic Gardens back up Chancellor hills. After 1 hour into the trail the beer stop along Chancellor Road was welcomed by all, some hasher exclaiming "this is just half way point they cannot make they going back to base". Only about $\frac{1}{4}$ of the hashers continued and loving a challenge I continued along, which took us to back into the Chancellor forest Hills then to St Anns Hills , at this point it was 2 hrs into the run and was kicking myself for continuing. I heard one of the hares telling Devon these hashers need anger management classes because she got some verbal abuse, and was afraid to stay for the down down. But after setting a run 8.5 miles averaging 2.5 hrs what can I say the verbal abuse was justified. In my 4 years of hashing it was the longest hash ever, I think the hares set a record for such and do hope this record is never to be challenged. This was a run for the fit of the fittest. ON ON
